Gregory Lodenquai, right, of Minden was named the top elementary school public speaker in the county Monday evening following the competition at the high school. Greg competed against four other elementary school students. Among those taking part in the finals were David Barry, of Haliburton, Kelly Ray of Cardiff, and Sandra Rutowski of Dorset.

Police search Dorset area for fugitive

Police are continuing their search in the Dorset area for a man described as armed and dangerous.

The search for 31 year old Rodney Allan Kirkpatrick is being concentrated in the Kawagama-Raven Lake area east of Dorset. Earlier this week the OPP used a helicopter, the district canine patrol and the boat from the Minden detachment in an effort to locate the fugitive. The helicopter and dog have since been withdrawn from the search.

According to the police the man has been arrested three times in the past in the Minden area. He was charged on numerous occasions with breaking into area cottages. He was identified from a photograph, by a cottager who discovered the man sleeping in his cottage. The man fled the scene when the owner arrived.

Police say the man has been able to obtain changes of clothing after breaking into the cottages. He is wanted by the local detachment on a number of break-in charges as well as for breach of parole.

Kirkpatrick has an extensive criminal record that includes a conviction for murder in British Columbia. He is a former forest ranger in the United States and is considered an expert with a knife.

Police forces in both countries consider the man to be armed and dangerous.

When last seen, on the afternoon of April 20, Kirkpatrick was wearing a jean jacket, blue jeans, and rubber boots. He stands six feet, one inch tall and weighs 160 pounds. He has blue eyes and auburn hair. Anyone with any knowledge of his whereabouts is asked to contact the Minden OPP at 286-1431.

Minden speakers tops

Eight enthusiastic students from throughout the county participated Monday evening in the public speaking finals at the high school in Haliburton. The eight, nervous speakers from secondary and elementary school level, faced a panel of judges and equally nervous group of teachers and parents as they presented their topics.

Gregory Lodenquai of Archie Stouffer School in Minden captured top honours in the elementary division. The top speaker in the secondary school section was Greg Brown, a grade 10 student at the high school. Greg is also from Minden.

It was a difficult decision for the judges. They deliberated in the principal's office for twenty-five minutes before presenting the results to the audience and competitors.

"Downhill Skiing: Another View" was Gregory Lodenquai's winning topic. He gave a comical personal account of his first down-hill skiing experience, in which he suffered injuries from attempting to ski spread-eagle fashion.

Greg Brown, won the secondary division with the topic "Billy Hayes". Brown described the controversial incident that occurred after Hayes was sentenced to life imprisonment for smuggling hashish into Turkey.

While every speech Monday evening was of top quality two others were of exceptional note.

David Barry, a student at the senior elementary school in Haliburton, was extremely knowledgeable on his topic, the Dionne Quintuplets. He was very poised and confident throughout the delivery.

Dana Colliver, a grade 9 secondary school competitor from Haliburton also pleased the audience with her speech on vampires. Through her convincing style she enticed the audience into believing that all those with blond hair and blue eyes were destined to become vampires.

All the students were excellent competitors and joined in congratulating the two winners when the decision of the judges was announced.

Others taking part in the contest were: at the elementary level, Kelly Ray, a grade 7 student from Cardiff and Sandra Rutowski, a grade 7 student in Dorset.

The two other high school participants were Stephen Symonds, a grade 10 student from Wilberforce and Barry Hollanis, a grade nine student from Tory Hill.

Hyland Crest resident found dead after walking away from home

An 85 year old man who walked away from the Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home in Minden early Wednesday (April 16) morning was discovered dead in the bush west of the building one day later.

Morley R. Sipe, a resident of the home for only a week, was pronounced dead by Haliburton Coroner Dr. H.E. Good. The cause of death was attributed to a ruptured abdominal aneurysm. Earlier reports had indicated that the man had died of exposure. These reports were later amended by the police.

According to the administrator of the home, Sid Brown, the victim had taken numerous walks in his short time at the home. He said the man had been seen outside the building prior to 9:30

Wednesday morning and had been advised by a staff member to obtain a jacket or sweater if he intended to go for a walk.

At approximately 9:30 the man was reported missing and the staff of the home began a search for him. The police were not notified of his disappearance until 3 p.m. According to the administrator, during that time members of the Hyland Crest staff had attempted to locate the missing resident. When the search proved to be unsuccessful, the police were called.

"Residents of the home can come and go as they please," Brown pointed out in an interview Tuesday morning.

He said that some have jobs in the community and others make regular trips to the library or for shopping in Minden. "This is not an institution that restricts the movement of the residents," he declared.

The administrator indicated that there were some residents who, because of their advancing age or senility, might become disoriented or lost if allowed to leave on their own. He indicated that Mr. Sipe was not considered to be one of these.

The administrator noted that when a resident leaves the home he is requested to sign a registry in the main hallway so he can be located if he fails to return or must be reached. Brown said that Mr. Sipe had not signed out when he left the home Wednesday morning.

Mr. Sipe was a former resident of Haliburton Village.

Province backs tourism study

Tourism in Haliburton County is about to come under very careful scrutiny from the provincial government.

The Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism announced last week that a study, under the Framework for Opportunity program, would be carried out in the Haliburton-Peterborough area. The intention to proceed with the study was announced as a seminar in Peterborough on Thursday and Friday at which the Minister of Industry and Tourism, Larry Grossman and other top officials of his ministry met with selected businessmen from the two areas concerned.

Under the Framework program a detailed and exacting study is carried out to identify tourism trends within the region. The results of the study will indicate the main market sources for the industry, potential markets and may suggest methods of tapping that market. The study, and others similar to it, have been carried out in other regions of the province.

The work will be carried out by a consulting firm hired by the ministry. The cost has been estimated at between $25,000 and $30,000.

During the past year, according to the chairman of the Haliburton County Economic Development Commission, Glen Hodgson, appeals have been made to ministry officials to have the study conducted in this area this year. He said that several trips had been made to Toronto by himself and other members of the EDC in an effort to convince the ministry of the need. Hodgson said that assistance was also received from a number of area MPPs including the Peterborough riding.

Others in attendance from Haliburton included Minden Reeve Sinc Nesbitt, Councillor Lyle McKnight, Jim McLean, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Barb Bolin, a member of the chamber and the EDC.

The group was also able to obtain an agreement from the ministry officials to carry out a study to determine the need for a 24 hour information booth on Highway 401, near the junction of Highways 5 and 115.

The Haliburton region is now grouped with Peterborough and area for tourist purposes by the Ministry of Industry and Tourism. Prior to the change the area had been aligned with Orillia and Huntsville regions.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

Recently, at a Resorts Ontario convention we were treated to an extremely enlightening address by a Mr. Jack McQuaig, a psychologist who specializes in the development of business executives. One point that he stressed in his talk was the importance of getting out and away from the operation you are involved with to see what others are doing and how and what they achieve. With this message firmly in the back of our mind, we set out on holidays not only to relax but to observe.

We drove to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina and back and during the entire trip south of the border only once did any employee servicing our needs fail to finish the conversation with, "Have a nice day". In almost all instances they actually appeared to be sincere when making the statement also.

Myrtle Beach is only one of a host of seaside beach areas along the Atlantic that share the same ocean, sand and sun. There is, however, an enormous difference in the apparent success of this particular area in comparison to its neighbours. Somewhere along the line that region decided that tourism was the most important factor in their economy and they have actively developed it. The spirit of working together to this end is evident everywhere. The accommodation facilities seldom own their own tennis courts or golf courses but co-operate with mutual facilities to package holidays. The same has happened with the many other recreational amenities now available in the area. As a result people are encouraged to circulate and spend money to the benefit of the entire economy.

Obviously, the Haliburton Highlands do not have the same climate and features as Myrtle Beach, so many would say that to compare with them is irrelevant. We do however have more tourist potential at this time than anything else and there are lessons to be learned from them on how to co-operate to take advantage of that potential. Some of the depressing sites you see at other beaches not far from Myrtle Beach indicate very graphically what happens when lack of vision and foresight are allowed to dictate the development.

Failure to obtain DREE assistance has once again hurt our prospects of developing alternate types of industry. Continued pressure must be applied for development in that area, but never losing sight of what we now have than can and should be developed.

come home was that the Haliburton-Peterborough regions are now in line for a "Framework for Opportunity" study. Both the Chamber and the Economic Development Commission have made a number of appeals to have this study done here and the announcement was made by the Honourable Larry Grossman at a meeting in Peterborough last week.

This study has been done in a number of regions in Ontario and will provide a detailed analysis of what potential development can and should take place in specific regions. The information that can be provided from the completed study will allow potential investors to intelligently assess what the future of the area may be, and what part they may wish to play in it.

The results of the study should prove invaluable also for planning by ourselves, our municipal, county and provincial governments. Things are looking up.

Catching up

Many things have happened in the few weeks we have been away and it will take time to catch up. We are glad to see Minden getting their B.I.A. plans underway, and one too soon with the way things are going in the Metropolitan area of Carnarvon. Their "Board of Trade" which is determined to not take itself too seriously apparently had 33 of a possible 50 turn out and sign up at their "inaugural" meeting. We wish them continued success.

We would like to welcome Ron and Barb White, new owners of the Driftwood Restaurant to our community and wish them well. We are also pleased to welcome Curtis and Brenda Eastmore to Maple Sands Resort on Maple Lake. Dale and Wanda Anthes are, for health reasons, unable to take as active a role in running the resort as in the past and have called upon their nephew, Tom Anthes, and Curtis and Brenda as inkeepers to fill the gap.

Mervyn and Barbara Reeve have just moved onto Lake Kashagawigamog as the new operators of Silver Beach Camping Park. They will be located here year round and we welcome them and wish them much success.

We hope you will drop in and make all these new folks welcome. More next week.

Permit values up 350%

It may not be a building boom but, in the first three and a half months of the year, Lutterworth Township has experienced a dramatic increase in the value of building permits issued, when compared with 1979.

According to a report tabled at the April 17 meeting of the Lutterworth Township council, $87,065 worth of permits have been issued since the start of the year. This compares with $25,045 during the same period in 1979.

The councillors expressed their satisfaction with the figures and the trend indicated by the increased building activity, however, they could offer no particular reason for the 350% increase.

Included in the statistics were permits issued for five additions, three accessory buildings, two cottages, two major repairs and one residence.

Children's services meeting

A public meeting will be held next Tuesday to discuss children's services in the Haliburton County area.

The meeting is being organized by the Children Services Steering Committee which has been established on a regional basis to co-ordinate the work of various agencies providing services for children.

The meeting will be addressed by Jim McNiven, a program supervisor with the Ministry of Community and Social Services. He will outline some of the concerns and questions regarding children's services and explain the role of the steering committee.

Some of the topics to be discussed at the meeting include day care, group homes, child abuse, children's aid, among others.

An invitation has been extended to anyone in the county who is interested in children's services. The meeting will convene at 7:30 p.m. at PineStone Inn.

Car is culprit

More than 1.4 million tonnes of nitrogen oxide emissions are dumped on northeastern Canada every year. The major source of this pollution is the car, and it's affecting our environment.

Council threatens to start liming program

Members of County Council expressed their frustration with what they feel is a go slow approach to the problem of acid rain by the provincial government. In a resolution passed at the April 16 meeting, the council announced it was prepared to start dumping lime in area lakes and rivers. The resolution also called on the Ministry of the Environment for direction and help in the amounts and areas for lime to be deposited.

The motion was prompted by Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt. He said the county should purchase lime and dump it into area watercourses at strategic locations. He suggested that the rapids which connect various lake chains in the county would be good locations for the lime to be dumped. "Perhaps we'll get some action from the government, if we started dumping the lime," Nesbitt suggested. "All we seem to be getting from the Ministry of the Environment is more studies."

The Minden Reeve stated that the acid rain problem had been under study for 20 years and that it was time that some remedial action was taken to ease the situation. "After all," he commented, "they are our lakes."

Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey urged caution in any action by the county. He said that dumping lime into a watercourse could be as detrimental to the fish and aquatic life as the acid rain. "I recognize there is a feeling of frustration, but we must move cautiously," Fearrey told the meeting.

The motion from Nesbitt found support from other municipal representatives. Stanhope Reeve Jim Harrison noted that a portion of the county watershed runs through a limestone formation and it has been protected from the impact of acid rain. He suggested that the action proposed by Nesbitt could be beneficial to the other rivers and lakes in the area.

Nesbitt told the councillors that he felt financial help would be donated by ratepayers in the county, especially cottagers, for the project.

Minden Deputy Reeve Doug Pritchard noted that the council was uncertain as to the type of lime to be used.

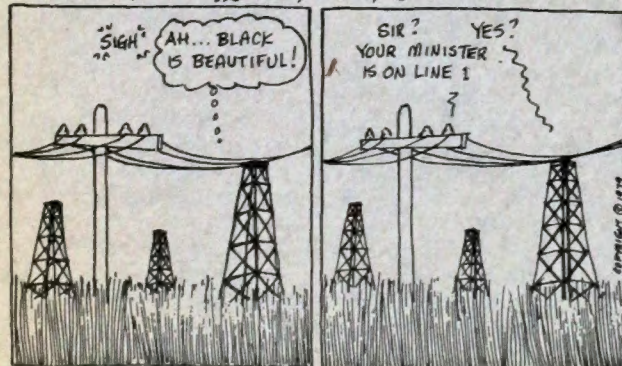

However, Snowdon Deputy Reeve John Francis pointed out that the resolution called for the direction of the Ministry of the Environment in undertaking the liming program. He said that indicated the ministry would provide some direction to the county.

The motion passed with Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey, Deputy Reeve Harold Bannon, and Lutterworth Deputy Reeve Glyn Lewis voting in opposition. Monmouth Deputy Reeve Carman Coumbs and Minden Deputy Reeve Doug Pritchard abstained.

Following the vote Fearrey commented that he hoped the Ministry of the Environment did not hold the county to its promise indicated in the motion. He said the county could be bankrupt if it was forced to haul limestone to all the needed locations in the area.

County wants province to fight court decision

The county has asked the provincial government to act on behalf of lakefront property owners whose rights to use the land in front of their cottage may be in jeopardy. The action by the county council, taken at the April 16 meeting, was prompted by a court decision earlier this month in Lindsay.

The decision stated that the 66 foot shore allowance which exists in front of many cottages in the area, is public property and anyone can use it.

The 66 foot allowance had been established as Crown land years ago when the government first deeded the land around lakes to private individuals. One purpose of the lakeshore allowance was to provide a refuge for mariners in distress and an area from which loggers could work to move their booms of logs downstream.

The recent court decision involved a dispute between two neighbouring cottagers in Stanhope Township. One landowner requested that his neighbour stop using the 66 foot allowance between the highwater mark of the lake and his property line as a road way. The legal wrangling took several years to resolve, however the decision handed down earlier this month indicated that the neighbour had the right to use the 66 foot shore allowance.

Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey described the decision as one that would be "...devastating to cottage privacy throughout Haliburton." He said that if the Township of Stanhope is not challenging the decision in the courts, the county should attempt to get the decision reversed.

Stanhope Reeve Jim Harrison stated that his council had yet to make a decision on what action to follow. He said that any decision to act would have to wait until the council has had an opportunity to study the text of the judge's decision.

The county councillors agreed that some action was necessary to prompt a change in the ruling of the judge. Reeve Harrison described the decision as a "province-wide precedent that could have serious consequences."

The motion approved by the council called on the Ministry of Treasury and Economics to intercede on behalf of cottagers throughout the province and have this decision reversed.

New policy

To further complicate the situation, the provincial government has recently announced a new set of guidelines for the use and sale of the 66 foot road allowance. The policy has apparently been worked out between the Ministry of Natural Resources, which is responsible for the shoreline allowance, and the Federation of Ontario Cottagers Association (FOCA).

According to the details of the policy, the ministry will not object to the sale of the 66 foot shoreline allowance to the abutting property owner by the municipality. In cases where the ministry acts on behalf of a municipality, the land will be sold to the individuals at a price to cover the administration costs.

It is pointed out that the land in question must be deemed surplus to the needs of the municipality before being sold.

In some cases, because of variations in water levels or the erosion of shorelines, that 66 foot allowance has already disappeared underwater. No claim for underwater land will be allowed by the ministry although a lenient attitude will be taken for those structures already in place over underwater land. This could include such fixtures as docks and boathouses.

In addition, any plans to construct buildings or fixtures on underwater land will require the approval of MNR.

Province backs syrup study

The Ontario government has announced it will contribute 75% of the cost of a study to determine the feasibility of expanding the maple syrup industry in the county. The participation of the province was announced in a letter to county council read at the April 16 meeting.

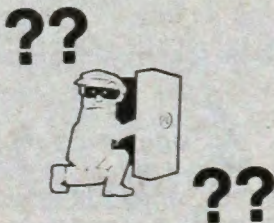

The study, which will be carried out by a consulting firm, has been one of the major aims of the Economic Development Commission (EDC) in their efforts to map an industrial strategy for the county.

The grant, to a maximum of $7875, is part of the provincial regional priority budget.

Among the concepts to be examined by the study is the feasibility of a central evaporator to serve a large area of the county and modern methods of syrup production including reverse osmosis.

EDC member Murray Fearrey, who is also the Reeve of Dysart, told the council he was pleased with the provincial government's support of the study. He said the maple syrup business has the potential of becoming a major industry in the county. The Economic Development Commission, funded by the county, will be contributing $2500 to the feasibility study.

Headaches

While the new policy announced by the provincial government and the Federation of Ontario Cottagers Association (FOCA) appears to clear the way for private ownership of the 66 foot shore allowance which surrounds most lakes in the county, the new policy might create more headaches than it solves.

The policy lifts the provincial embargo on the sale of the Crown shore allowance. It gives the municipality the authority to dispose of it, if the land is not needed for access or other public use. The adjoining landowners are to be the purchasers.

The present situation, where the 66 foot allowance is public property is unacceptable. This was amply demonstrated in a recent court decision which ruled that, even though an adequate and convenient access route could be constructed to the rear of a property, a neighbouring cottager had the right to use the shore allowance in front of a neighbour's property to reach his own. Such a situation is an intolerable intrusion on the privacy cottagers often seek in their cottage retreat.

The purchase of each individual piece of shore allowance, where it exists, is going to be a complicated procedure. The placement of boundaries, particularly where property lines do not approach the lakeshore at right angles, will provide the basis for many disputes. The exact location of the allowance, since it is based on something as fluid and ever-changing as a high water mark, will also be difficult to determine.

While some municipal officials view with anticipation what they consider will be a windfall to be gained by selling the shore allowances, others predict the tangle of red tape will quickly consume any income earned by the sale of the allowance.

The solution to these problems, and others that will flow from this new policy and the "monkey wrench" of a court decision, will not be easy to find. Indeed, the province and FOCA appear to have opened a Pandora's box, and now that the lid is up, the municipalities will have the unenviable task of sorting out the mess.

Letters Letters

Editor:

I was interested to read an article in another newspaper dated March 26, 1980, by one J.G. Strickland referring to the 66 foot road allowance and 66 foot reserves, it referred to where some poor cottager was only sold the ground his cottage sat on plus 12 inches surrounding it, if he went outside to wash his windows he would be still trespassing on the 66 foot road allowance. This is absolutely contrary to the intent of the Ministry of Natural Resources new policy on 66 foot road allowances and 66 foot reserves.

In unorganized territories where the Ministry still has control, the 66 foot Crown reserve is being deeded to the abutting owner for $250.00 by way of a crown grant regardless of whether he has 100 feet or 400 feet.

We would hope that the organized municipalities would follow suit, and stop playing games with the property. The municipality could simply type out a deed of land register it to the abutting owner and for that they would get $250 their administrative fee, of course they would have to close the allowance by by-law and the County Council comply with the request to close, it is just that simple. Why County Council would request any part of the $250 belonging to the municipality, I will never be able to guess. Why should a municipality give up its administrative fee to anyone not having to do the administrative costs of preparing the deed? Not only that, some municipalities may have 100 closures and another municipality in the same county have hardly any closures. Why should the municipality with all the administrative work enrich the coffers of County Council for the benefit of some other township.

I concur with your articles and also those of Mr. Strickland, like he says this is an election year and there will those who will be wondering how come they have been replaced.

REPORT FROM PARLIAMENT

by William C. Scott, M.P.

The House of Commons is presently debating the new government's Speech from The Throne, but the Members on the government side of the House are speaking more on the up-coming Quebec referendum than they are on the Throne Speech.

It is just as well that they are, because there is precious little of any substance in The Throne Speech to talk about, and we don't know any more about the government's plans to deal with major issues than we did before the speech was presented.

For instance, we don't know whether the present government plans any measures to assist homeowners to cope with high interest rates, such as the previous Conservative government's mortgage interest deductibility program, and property tax rebate plan.

We don't know whether the government is prepared to bring in a program to assist small businesses, such as our proposed Small Business Development Bond program, which would have made capital available to small businesses at greatly reduced interest rates.

Present high interest rates have had a disastrous effect on small businesses in Canada, resulting in the highest rate of business failures in our country's history.

When questioned about this, the present finance minister said that the government would make more capital available to small businesses, but at the present high rates of interest. There is sufficient capital available to small businesses today, so that is obviously not the answer to the problem.

There were vague hints in the speech that the government might adopt some of our government's proposals that they attacked so vigorously last year; to deal with the serious problems of inflation, unemployment, energy self-sufficiency, regional disparities and air and water pollution.

The Throne Speech debate has brought out some interesting facts on how Quebec benefits from being in Confederation, including these from a speech given in the House by Monique Begin, a Liberal Member from Quebec.

All fees paid to doctors and specialists in Quebec, as well as the wages of nurses and health care workers, are paid by the federal government.

The federal government pays 55 per cent of the cost of all health care in Quebec, while the province pays the remaining 45 per cent. In the fiscal year 1978-79, the federal government gave Quebec 1.5 billions of dollars to pay for health services.

On a per centage basis, Quebec paid only 22 per cent of total taxes collected by the federal government, but that province collected about 250 million dollars more from the federal government just for health services than they paid to Ottawa in taxes, 28 per cent of total federal expenditures.

In 1979, the federal government raised the old age pension supplement by $20.00 per month, but the Quebec government skimmed off three quarters of that amount to pay for a provincial ambulance service that cost 1.5 million dollars to operate. The Quebec government then told its people that this ambulance service was a free service provided by their provincial government.

Seventy-five per cent of the cost of family allowance cheques paid to Quebec mothers is paid by the federal

Worth supporting

A hospital is, and should be, more than cold unemotional statistics. However, numbers often reveal an interesting story that sometimes goes untold.

It was with interest then that we studied the annual report of the Nursing Supervisor, Jean Anderson, of the Minden Red Cross Hospital. Her summary of the year's activities was presented at the annual meeting of the local Red Cross Society, held April 12.

The figures show that the hospital is fulfilling a vital and necessary function in this community. It also shows that compared to the year before, almost all aspects of the hospital's operation have recorded an increase. That in itself is proof of the importance of the local medical facility.

The following figures offer an overview of what went on at the hospital during 1979. For comparison purposes, 1978 figures are provided in the brackets.

Admissions 508, (418): These included 434 (369) adults; 74 (49) children; and one birth, compared to none the year before.

-The number of patient days during the year was 1912 (2146) which equals an average stay of 3.8 days per patient.

-2896 out-patients were treated compared to 3029 in 1978. 2124 X-rays were taken last year with 1813 the year before.

-581 electrocardiograms were taken compared to 598 the year before.

-The staff consisted of: one nursing administrator, four full-time Registered Nurses, three part-time Registered Nurses, three full-time Registered Nursing Assistants and two part-time RNAs.

-Cooking, cleaning, maintenance and secretarial duties were handled by six full-time and two part-time employees.

As we noted earlier, statistics do not tell the whole hospital story, but they certainly indicate how important the facility is to the community it serves. It deserves our support.

★★★★★ The Rendall Report ★★★★★

Gr. 4+5 went to the Times newspaper on Fri. April 18,¹⁹⁸⁰ where Mr. Brezina and Miss Cameron showed us how it is produced.

Most pictures are made from a picture book that they get every month, however sometimes they have a person who draws the pictures if the illustrations are not in the book.

Instead of using glue to stick headings or pictures on the newspaper they use a waxing machine which waxes the paper so they can rearrange articles if they wish.

When they print the newspaper in Bracebridge, a flabby metal plate is used.

The plate is negative which means it is white on black.

When it's printed, it reverses to black on white. Miss Cameron typesets sizes of print of up to about 5-6 centimetres on an automatic typesetter. Mrs. Beers then proof reads the typeset copy.

Mr. Brezina showed us how they develop the pictures in the dark room where they use machines and chemicals.

After the class saw how the Times is produced grades 4 and 5 walked back to Archie Stouffer Elementary school where they began preparing their own newspaper page, Stay tuned (whoops!), that is stay paged for future developments!

It was enjoyable and we would like to thank Mr. Brezina and Miss Cameron for giving their time.

3 charged in truck theft

Three Haliburton area youths have been charged with break, enter and theft and possession of stolen property of a value greater than $200.

The charges were laid by Minden OPP against Brett Floyd Hie, 18, Peter John Austin, 16, and a male juvenile, all of Haliburton.

The charges stem from an incident March 25 when Curry Motors in Haliburton was broken into and a pick-up truck removed from the property. The truck was later recovered in Oshawa.

The investigating officer was Constable Mike Maher.

Mischief

A charge of mischief under the Criminal Code was laid against 18 year old John Philip Smith of Haliburton April 9.

The man was charged after a padlock was thrown through a large plate glass window at the offices of Dawson and Gray, chartered accountants, in Haliburton. Damage was estimated at $200.

Constable Bob Wood investigated the incident.

Vandalism

A cottage in Lutterworth Township was the target of someone's rage recently.

The summer home belonged to Joseph Cochrane of Port Perry. The intruders stole a car radio and some liquor, valued at $20.

While in the cottage the people involved smashed furniture, emptied the kitchen cupboards and threw items of furniture through the windows. Damage was estimated at $2500.

The incident is believed to have taken place prior to April 14.

Constable Jim Solway investigated.

Strikes rock

An Etobicoke man escaped with minor injuries after the motorcycle he was driving left the Horseshoe Lake Road and smashed into a rock.

Kris Macklen, 19, was northbound on the road April 20 when the cycle veered off the road into the east ditch. The accident took place at 12:30 a.m.

Damage to the motorcycle was estimated at $1800.

Constable Al Barnes conducted the investigation into the incident.

Council rejects education portfolio

Haliburton County Council has balked at a suggestion from their counterpart in Victoria County that school boards in the province be abolished.

The suggestion, contained in a resolution from the county to the south, was read at the April 16 meeting.

The resolution noted that much of the criticism for increasing taxes, due to escalating education levies, is directed at municipal officials because the municipality is responsible for the collection of the taxes. It suggested that the Minister of Education, the Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs and the Premier of the province introduce legislation to dissolve school boards in Ontario and transfer their responsibility to the county and regional councils.

After a brief outburst of laughter and sidelong glances the motion was quietly laid to rest.

government. Quebec is by far the winner, as it gets back more in family allowances and tax credits than it pays to Ottawa in taxes. In total, Quebec received $680 million dollars more from Ottawa last year to pay for social programs than it paid in federal taxes.

Last year, Quebec also received one billion, two hundred and seventy million dollars in equalization payments, most of it coming from taxes collected in Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia.

I believe that is reasonable to say that Monique Begin's facts tell their own story.

-the committee will cooperate with the local baseball teams in supplying top soil for the diamond adjacent to the arena. The ball field, according to the team representatives, is extremely uneven. It was estimated that 10 to 12 truckloads of fill would be needed to smooth out the bumps. The players have indicated they would assist in spreading the material if the township could have it delivered to the site.

The team representatives also requested that a wood stairway be installed from the upper level parking lot to provide better access to the diamond. This was approved by the committee.

Skaters meet

The annual meeting of the Minden Figure Skating Club will be held this coming Tuesday at the Anglican Church.

The meeting will be preceded by a pot-luck supper which is scheduled to start at 6 p.m.

In announcing the date for the meeting the members of the executive committee noted that the organization operated this year with an incomplete executive. "The workload has become too much for just a few people to carry," it was pointed out.

The annual meeting will see the election of a new slate of officers for the coming season and it is hoped volunteers will be available to fill the posts. Members and prospective members of the organization have been invited to attend to ensure the continuation of the club during the 1980-81 skating season.

Education levy up 9.2%

Haliburton County taxpayers will be paying more for education services provided in the highlands during 1980.

An over-all budget increase of 9.2% was approved at a special meeting of the board earlier this month. The increase raises the board's total budget from $4,805,785 to $5,248,887.

While the net increase is just over 9% most municipalities will experience and increase in education taxes by an average of 14%.

Board business administrator, Jim Leworthy, said the increases reflect the higher cost of heating fuel, interest on money that must be borrowed prior to the collection of the taxes, and other expenses. He noted that during the past four years the increases in the school board budget have been less than the annual increase in the Consumer Price Index, a rating set by Statistics Canada to indicate the cost of living.

The largest portion of the school budget, 67% is consumed in salaries. Transportation takes 12% of the money, maintenance gets 9%, debt charges being serviced by 5% and fees to other boards for education provided for Haliburton County students, 6%.

The following figures indicate the levies and percentage increases in store for ratepayers in various municipalities in the county: Anson, Hindon and Minden $602,512--15.1%; Cardiff $157,290--11.2%; Dysart et al $937,733--15%; Glamorgan $194,953--13.8%; Lutterworth $228,538--12.5%; Monmouth $113,345--15.5%; Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone $247,731--15.7%; Snowdon $101,752--11.6%; Stanhope $360,795--12%; Bicroft Improvement District $49,645--10.5%.

Detector by-law approved

A by-law to require the installation of smoke detectors in all homes in the Township of Lutterworth, was approved at the municipality's last meeting, April 17.

The by-law passed two voted to one with Councillor Bill Valentine expressing a dissenting opinion. (Reeve Ron Gambell was not in attendance and Deputy-Reeve Glyn Lewis was the chairman).

Valentine said the by-law was unenforceable because it would be difficult for the by-law enforcement officer to gain access to a home to ensure the law was being adhered to. "There is nothing we can do if someone tells the by-law enforcement officer to 'to fly a kite' " Valentine commented.

Councillor Bill Prentice agreed that the by-law may be difficult to enforce, "...but if we save one life by having it on our books, it would be of value."

Councillor Al Stott noted that the by-law is similar to one in force in the community of Lakefield. He claimed the by-law is working well in that community. "There is really little the by-law officer can do if people do not wish to co-operate," Stott noted, "but, by passing this law we are letting people know we are concerned." Glyn Lewis added that the people should realize that the by-law is in their own best interest.

The by-law calls for a fine of up to $1000 for anyone not complying with its provisions.

Curling champs claim trophies

Minden and area curlers wrapped up another season this past weekend with a dinner and dance at the Minden Community Centre.

During the evening trophies were presented to those teams which had captured top honours in league play. Tribute was also paid to a number of rinks that made outstanding contributions to the local curling scene in the past season. Among the teams mentioned was the schoolboy foursome of Doug Cross, Shane Blakey, Sean Harrison and Paul Madden. The youthful curlers advanced to the divisional round in the schoolboy's competition before being eliminated from action.

The chairman for the evening, Ron Reid, also paid tribute to two women's Tankard Teams which advanced to the division playdowns this past season as well. This is the second time in three years that teams from the Minden club had reached the divisional play-offs. Members of the teams included: Penny Obee, Toos Reid, Patti Prentice and Marie Saunders: Dale Austin, Bev Millar, Lois Titus and Marion Anderson.

The winning team in women's division was the Penny Obee rink. They were awarded the Prentice Roads trophy. Other members of the foursome include Cheryl Murdock, Nancy Garbutt and Yolanda McCormick. The four were also winners of the third schedule for Monday night ladies.

The winners in other ladies' competitions were: second schedule, Monday night: Dale Austin, Cheryl Murdock, Hazel Maxwell, and Joan Hummell: second schedule, Tuesday afternoon; Lois Titus, Marg Windover, Alberta Maitland and Irene Alexander.

The mixed championship was taken by the Ron Reid rink which included Toos Reid, Ken and Pearl Fielding. They were presented with the Dollo IGA trophy. The squad also won the third schedule.

Winning the first mixed schedule was the Jim Burton rink. Members include Helen Burton, Lisa and Lyn Forsyth. Winners of the second schedule were Don and Elaine Blakey and Ken and Pearl Fielding.

Perhaps the most hotly contested championship of the year was in the men's division. The Bob Austin rink captured top honours in that group. The other members of the team include Jim Garbutt, Ev Rudd and Brent Murdock.

Taking schedule 2 honours in the men's division was Bob Austin, Dwight Thomas, Bill Roodenburg and Herb Roodenburg. Schedule three winners were Neil Burk, Shane Blakey, Ron Reid and Brent Murdock.

Council favours Saturday service

Lutterworth Township council has endorsed a stand taken by the Canadian Postmasters and Assistants Association with regard to the proposed closing of wicket service at Minden and Haliburton post offices on Saturday.

Deputy-Reeve Glyn Lewis described the Saturday service as a "small town institution" and said he felt any move to close the post office on Saturday morning would be detrimental to the area as a whole.

Councillor Bill Valentine echoed those sentiments. He noted that many tourists and cottagers in the county rely on the Saturday opening of the post office to receive or send mail.

The plan to close the post offices, which at this point is not an announced policy of the federal government, was brought to the attention of local councils by Minden's assistant post master Lloyd Johnson. Anson, Hindon and Minden council, County council and other municipalities in Haliburton have added their voice of concern to those expressed by Lutterworth.

Cheryl Murdock, left, and Nancy Garbutt were the only two members of the women's division championship rink on hand to accept the Prentice Roads trophy Saturday night at the annual Curling Club dinner and dance. Paul Prentice presents the trophy to the champs.

Green Thumb Corner

While not everyone is a fanatic about flower or vegetable gardens, most people in the community attempt to maintain a neatly trimmed and weed-free lawn. With that in mind, J.L. Eggers, from the department of Horticultural Science at the University of Guelph, has some tips on lawn care.

Green, green grass of home

For the purposes of lawn maintenance and care, the growing season from April through August may be divided into three main periods. The division of the growing season is not exact, so maintenance practices may overlap. Lawns and lawn problems differ considerably. Not all lawns have the same problems. It is important to know your soil type and have it tested for nutrients.

The maintenance practices suggested in this article are for a typical Kentucky bluegrass lawn in full sun, with a Kentucky bluegrass-red fescue mixture in shaded areas, on a loam soil. It is also assumed that a medium to high visual quality is required.

April - May

Raking - A vigorous raking with a leaf rake, as soon as the turf is dry enough to walk on, will remove many creeping bent grass and rough bluegrass stolens. It will also help dry the lawn, and reduce snowmold fungus activity.

Thatch control - Thatch consists of a tightly intermingled layer of living and dead stems, leaves, and roots, that develop at the soil surface. Thatch causes grass plants to develop above the soil surface. Vigorous hand raking in mid-to-late April, is effective for thatch removal in small areas. However, for larger areas, mechanical removal is more practical.

Rolling - Turf areas seeded the previous fall should be rolled to press the grass plants back into the soil. Rolling can also be used to level the lawn, but it may cause unacceptable compaction on fine-textured soils.

Fertilization - Apply a complete fertilizer of a 4:1:2 (N:P:K) ratio with a fast-release nitrogen carrier (water-soluble nitrogen) at a rate of 0.5 kilograms actual nitrogen per 100 square metres (1 pound N/1000 square feet). Nitrogen provides early shoot growth and green color and should not be applied earlier than mid-April.

Weed Control - Annual grass weeds, such as crabgrass, can be controlled with a pre-emergent herbicide, such as Bensulide or dacthal, applied late April. Broad-leaved weed control is most effective in mid-September. However, annual broad-leaved weeds, such as prostrate knotweed, and weeds which were missed the previous fall, should be treated with a 2,4-D mixture in early to mid-May.

Mowing - Mow at a height of four centimetres (1 1/2 inches), once every 10 days, until late May. For heavy-shade areas, delay mowing as long as possible or until the turf has grown to a height of 10 centimetres (4 inches). Then mow no lower than 6 to 7 centimetres (2 1/2 inches). Do not remove more than 40 percent of the leaf blade during mowing.

Cultivation - Fine-textured, poorly-drained soils and areas of concentrated foot traffic may require coring or slicing. A compacted soil condition restricts water and air movement within the soil, resulting in a shallow root system and reduced quality. In small areas, cultivation can be accomplished with a fork. A mechanical aerating machine is required for large areas.

Renovation - Resodding is much better than seeding at this time of year. Spring sown seed is slow to germinate because of low soil temperatures. The seedlings do not grow well because of intense weed competition.

Disease - The main disease of home lawns in spring is leaf spot. Definite, dark, purplish-red spots appear on the leaf blades. It is important to control the disease at this stage. If environmental conditions favor disease development (cool, cloudy weather, high nitrogen, frequent low mowing), root and stem rot will develop in June. To control this disease, apply a fungicide, such as Daconil or Dyrene, raise the mowing height, and reduce the mowing frequency for several weeks.

June and July

These are the months to enjoy your lawn. Under normal conditions, lawns should require little more than mowing and irrigation.

Fertility - In early June, apply a complete fertilizer of a 4:1:2 ratio with the nitrogen (N) in the slow-release (water-insoluble) form at a rate of 0.8 kilograms N per 100 square metres (1 1/2 pound N/1000 square feet). To determine the amount of actual nitrogen in the fertilizer, divide the first number (i.e. 16-4-8 fertilizer) into 100. For example, 100 divided by 16 is approximately 6, so 6 pounds of the actual fertilizer material is applied to 1000 square feet of lawn surface.

Insects - Watch for buff-colored moths flying over the lawn in a zig-zag pattern. The moths lay eggs as they fly over the turf. The larvae from these eggs are the destructive sod webworm which destroy lawns in September. The larvae live in silken tunnels in the thatch at the soil surface during the day. At night, they cut off the grass blades at the crown. Control with an insecticide, such as diazinon or sevin.

Fusarium blight - This fungus disease causes most damage when periods of high temperature and humidity follow a drought period. Treat with a systemic, such as benomyl, in late July.

Systemic fungicides are applied to the soil as a drench, or by turning on the sprinkler for 20 minutes after spraying the fungicide on the grass foliage.

Chinch bugs - These insects are most destructive in August, but are large enough to be found in the turf in late July. Treat with an insecticide, such as diazinon, in late July, to prevent lawn injury in August.

Irrigation - Water lawns at the rate of 2 to 3 centimetres (1 inch) per week.

August

August is the best month for establishing lawns by seed. If seeded mid-August, seeds will germinate in early September under favorable growing conditions. Sod growers attempt to seed as many of their fields as possible in mid-August to achieve optimum establishment.

Renovation - This procedure can transform thin, poor quality turf with a high weed population into a thick, weed-free lawn. This is accomplished without complete tillage, and generally involves killing the

Adding that touch of colour

The beautification of the riverside park and the streets of Minden is something that most everyone can appreciate. However, many individuals may be unaware of just who is responsible for the colourful finished product.

Those who are uncertain, and who would like to find out more, are invited to attend the monthly meeting of the Minden and District Horticultural Society scheduled for May 6. This group of volunteers from throughout the community □ J.B. Grant, Minden □ share their gardening expertise and time to create the floral arrangements and designs which add that special touch of colour to the Minden scene.

The May meeting is particularly important because final plans for this year's efforts will be set. Volunteers will also be sought to help clear the flower beds of their winter debris, prepare the soil for the new crop, and the actual planting of the young seedlings.

It is not all work with the society however. Those who are members enjoy the opportunity to exchange tips and ideas on all aspects of gardening, from vegetables to flowers, just about anything that grows.

In addition, guest speakers are usually invited to the meetings to discuss various aspects of gardening. These resource people can often be an excellent source of information and usually welcome the interest shown by the society members. The guest speaker at the May 6 meeting will be Mr. Kraemer, of Kramer's Greenhouses on South Lake Road.

An invitation has been extended by the members of the society to anyone interested in gardening to attend the meeting. The gathering will be called to order at 7:30 p.m.

existing turf and weeds with a contact herbicide, such as glyphosate, and overseeding with a disc-overseeder. Renovation should be carried out if selective weed control is not practical; the lawn contains weedy grasses that cannot be selectively controlled; less than 40 percent of the lawn is composed of desirable perennial turf grasses; and if the soil root zone is favorable for turf growth.

The lawn can safely be overseeded within seven days of treatment with glyphosate (Roundup) applied at a rate of 1.68 kilograms per hectare in 90 to 135 litres of water (1 1/2 to 2 pounds (active) per acre in 20 to 30 gallons of water).

Irrigation - Water at a rate of 2 to 3 centimetres (1 inch) per week.

Disease - The two most common diseases on home lawns in August are Fusarium blight and dollarspot. Treat with a systemic, such as Benomyl.

Chinch bugs - These insects are very destructive to home lawns in August, and should be treated with an insecticide, such as diazinon.

Mowing - The mowing height should be raised one to two centimetres (1/2 inch) to increase drought and heat tolerance.

Farm news & views

Agriculture and Food Minister Lorne C. Henderson has announced a number of changes to the drainage guidelines, effective April 1, 1980.

The new guidelines increased to $20,000 the amount of drainage loans any one farmer may have under this program in a fiscal year. The total amount which any one farmer may have outstanding at any one time has been increased to $60,000.

A new interest rate of 8 per cent also came into effect April 1, 1980. It will be reviewed and adjusted from time to time as necessary.

Any farmer who is planning on installing tile drains in his farm during the coming year is eligible to apply for a drainage loan. These loans are handled by the Township Clerk for the municipality in which the property lies.

As the total amount of money available each year is limited, farmers should apply at an early date if they expect to require a loan.

Coming events
April 24 - 7:00 p.m.:

Spread by insects

Dutch Elm Disease is spread from infected trees to healthy trees by the elm beetle, causing wilting of leaves and death to the tree within a few years. A cure for Dutch Elm Disease is still being sought by Environment Canada scientists - to enhance our environment.

High water levels in lakes and rivers in the county were evident along the shores of the Gull River in Minden during the week. The public dock, at the left of the picture by the life ring, was completely submerged by the spring run-off. Water levels are expected to slowly return to normal in the next few weeks.

by Ron Reid of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Suddenly it's spring and wave after wave of returning birds are rolling northwards over the Ontario landscape. The first tentative scouting by horned larks and early robins is once again history; the noisy flocks of grackles, blackbirds, and cowbirds have swept through on their heels. Ducks and geese now add colour to the chilly waters finally freed from ice, and the chirping of sparrows adds life to the tangled branches of ravine or garden.

As you welcome back your feathered friends, give a thought to their remarkable achievements in their yearly travels. That blackpoll warbler, for example, that briefly rests in your garden, has probably made a non-stop overwater flight of more than 2300 miles, lasting about 86 hours without rest. To find favourable winds, this fragile mite, with a body scarcely the size of a hen's egg, may have climbed to the cold oxygen-poor altitude of 21,000 feet.

The arctic tern, which nests to within 450 miles of the north pole, in contrast winters in the other end of the earth in the Antarctic. If the flight of the tern is amongst the most graceful of movements in the natural world, perhaps that grace results from the abundance of practice, in a twice-yearly flight from pole to pole.

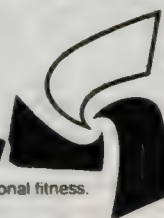

Why should so many birds, more than two-thirds of the over 600 species on this continent, subject themselves to the annual hazards of migration? After all, the Cardinal, and many other species, rarely travel more than ten miles from their birthplace in a lifetime. Some experts believe that the ritual was founded during the Ice Age, when advancing and retreating glaciers must have forced mass movements of northern birds.

Others speculate that the southern hemisphere may be the original residence of numerous species, and that each winter these birds merely return to their ancestral home. By invading northwards each summer, these adventurers colonized a vast new area for food and nesting space that was temporarily available. Long northern days provide more time for feeding, and the young nestlings could take advantage of abundant food to mature quickly.

How do they find their way during migration? I'll look at that next week.

Bill paid reluctantly

The members of township council in Lutterworth paid the bill, but they did it reluctantly.

The invoice had been sent from the consulting engineering firm, Totten, Sims Hubicki Associates Limited of Willowdale for services rendered during the construction of the Rackety Creek bridge and culvert last year. According to the members of council the total estimate for the project, including engineering fees, was set at close to $40,000 before the work was carried out. The cost to date, and there is still some work to be done, is $52,000. A portion of the cost over-run, according to the councillors, is due to increased engineering fees assessed by the Willowdale firm.

Councillor Bill Prentice told the meeting that the township should be very careful before placing another contract with the firm. "Their engineering fees were more than double the original estimate," Prentice commented, "I'm glad they didn't build the bridge."

The council had complained to the company earlier, and in a revised invoice the company had reduced the billing by $880.

Councillor Bill Valentine commented that while the township was pleased to have received the $800 from the company, the municipality should "do some looking around" before hiring an engineering firm again.

According to the township clerk treasurer, the engineering firm had originally estimated their services at $4,075. The municipality to date has paid $9,200.

Premier may officiate at preserve opening

The opening of the Minden Wild Water Preserve this September may include a visit to the area by Ontario Premier William Davis.

According to a letter read at the April 9 meeting of the Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council, efforts are being made to have the Premier on hand for the ceremonies.

The Ontario Wild Water Affiliation recently transformed the rapids below the Horseshoe Lake dam to make the area suitable for canoe and kayak trails. The area has been described as, "...an important landmark in the area and the first venture of this kind in North America."

Plans for the opening, which has been set for September 13, include a ceremony at which a signal will be given and the first canoe will navigate the course. Claudia Kerckhoff, who placed fifth in the world championships in 1979 and Dieter Poenn, who placed seventh will be the first paddlers to test their skills after the official opening.

Following the opening, the Ontario Slalom Championships in white water will be held, and according to a spokesman for the affiliation, the event is expected to draw a great deal of media coverage.

THE BANK WHERE PEOPLE MAKE THE DIFFERENCE

AROUND THE TOWN

by Jeanne Sears

We notice that the Township Road Crew have placed the blue and white trash cans in various places. If you want to help make "Your Town" attractive, take time to throw that wrapper or can in the containers.

Sincere sympathy goes to the family and friends of the late Morley Sipe who died last week.

At the Mini Card Party at the Parish Hall last Thursday afternoon winners were for cribbage: Joyce Hewitt and Diane Stevens; for euchre high Shirley Elcome, lone hands Alice Clarke (on a cut) and Johann Beattie. May 6th is the Pot Luck supper for the Card Gang and it is at 6 p.m. and all you players come on out and enjoy a social time.

Fred Hewitt, Deborah and Paul of Scarborough spent the weekend with Mrs. Ern Hewitt.

New arrival is a baby boy for Audrey and Mervin Redner, congratulations.

Weekend guests with Mrs. Alice Morrison were her sons Craig of Toronto and Myles of Hamilton.

All their friends send good wishes to Annie Cox and Myra Mason who are in our local hospital.

Mrs. Ann Venn of Timmins visited her sister Mrs. Harvey McIntosh for 2 weeks.

Glenn Stamp of Oshawa and Glenda Stamp of Whitby were weekend guests in our village.

Weekend guests with the Beers family were Pearl, David and Samantha Dobbs of Toronto.

If you have a tender message, Or a loving word to say, Do not wait till you forget it,

But whisper it today. The tender word unspoken, The letter never sent, The long forgotten messages, The wealth of love unspent — For these some hearts are breaking, For these some loved ones wait; So show them that your care for them Before it is too late.

Congratulations to Lydia and Angus Coulter who celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary on Tuesday.

Edna and Harold Morgan are home again and report having a pleasant holiday in Florida.

Ruth and Bob McBrien were away at a Pro Hardware Seminar at Holiday Inn in London, Ontario.

Fern Bresner and Mr. and Mrs. Foley Lubben of Kapuskasing were visiting Mrs. Irene Stamp and other relatives.

Florence Booth of Oakville visited the Lorne Bulls for several weeks.

Ann Schell of Sudbury visited over the weekend with relatives and friends.

Craig Barry, Perry Kimble, Dean Hewitt and Terry O'Brien vacationed in Florida recently.

Guests with the Harold Coulters over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. George Johnston and Earl of Barry's Bay. This group and the Bill Callows of Huntsville all visited with the Dale Coulters of Gravenhurst on Sunday.

Next Sunday early, you will lose an hour's sleep, as the clocks 'spring' forward; hope you won't be late for anything this day.

I may not strive to reach the heights, My place is lowly and obscure; But if at night I can recall One helpful deed, however small; If some bright word I may have said A soul has cheered and comforted; If I have tried at least to share The burdens that my neighbours bear, Then I may count my day well spent And sleep with calm and sweet content.

SENIOR LEAGUE

by Linda English

There was a good turn out to fun and fitness on Monday morning. We enjoyed a game of kick the ball to the tune of Smiley Bates. Later in the afternoon, the ladies worked on their crafts while the men had a game of Carpet Bowling in the auditorium. The fellows joined the ladies for a cup of tea and cookies after the game.

On Tuesday morning, Doris Robertson led us in the singing of some of our favorite hymns. Agnes Taylor was here to play the organ.

We enjoyed the two very scenic films we viewed later in the afternoon. "Alaska Diary" took us on a cruise on the Princess Patricia. It was a 2000 mile cruise from Vancouver to Alaska. We saw the beautiful mountains in Glacier Bay and learned the history of the famous Trail of 98, and the goldrush days. The scenery in this film was breathtaking, and it was certainly a cruise to remember.

"The Bermuda Secret" told us the history of Bermuda and of its industries. The island is a small paradise where thousands of tourists visit each year. The hospitality shown there cannot be matched anywhere else in the world. Bermuda lives in the secret hearts of people everywhere.

Thursday afternoon the ladies of the Haliburton Anglican Church served a lovely Thrift Shop will be open this Friday April 25 from 2-4 at the Parish Hall upstairs. The LOBA Card Party will be Monday April 28 at the Hall beside the United Church and this is for euchre and cribbage, prizes and lunch and starts at 8. Then Tuesday night is Cancer Society Film Night at 8 at the United Church Hall. Films are on smoking, the effects on women, and on self-examination. April 29 will be the Card Party at the Parish Hall at 8 for euchre, bridge and cribbage with prizes and lunch and proceeds all for the Foster Child.

Lovely weekend, sure hope it lasts. Cheerio until next time.

variety of tea breads and cheese at the tea party. The ladies visited with many residents before leaving. Friday was a really fun day at Hyland Crest. We had fun and fitness in the morning and before lunch, several people formed a discussion group in the lounge. Many interesting things were talked about including politics and life in general. After lunch, we had a visit from a strange looking little elf who came to open the Tuck Shop.

A little while later, we were very pleased to welcome Mr. Ray Jenkins back again this week to play some honky-tonk piano. Our residents really enjoyed the music and sang along with Ray when he played some old familiar favorites. At the end of the Sing Song everyone was in good spirits and we are looking forward to having Mr. Jenkins play again for us sometime.

A Penny's Worth

by Yvonne Penny

What a beautiful week-end! The weather was superb and we were not bothered by those little black pests which will probably arrive before long to annoy us.

Congratulations to Merv and Audrey Redner who are the proud parents of a new son, born in a Peterborough hospital last Wednesday, April 16. Mother, father, son and grandma Redner are all doing well.

Did you realize that the Red Cross lends crutches, wheelchairs, bed trays, commodes, walkers, and other sickroom equipment? Just another community service by Minden Red Cross.

Don't forget the Spring Fashion Show at the C.E. Building of the United Church here next Friday night! It starts at 8 p.m. and admission is free.

Best wishes to Geraldine Carr who has just recently been released from a Peterborough hospital.

The Pot Luck supper at Maple Lake United Church last week was a success. Many people report having enjoyed a delicious dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl McLearn have returned from their winter vacation in the south. "Grandma Johnson" also has returned to her home at Maple Lake. Her granddaughter, Michele, is spending some time here with her.

I was speaking to a member of the Stanhope Airport committee this week and she tells me they are busy arranging things for the Annual Spring fly-in to be held on June 15th this year. The beef barbecue, which has been very popular other years, is on the agenda again for this year.

Watch that first step

The use of the Stanhope airport as a skydiving and parachute jumping centre, which was approved earlier this month by the township council, has received the blessing of the airport committee and the major participants.

At a joint meeting Sunday, representatives of the committee, the Parachute School of Toronto, and Air Haliburton, the final details of the agreement were worked out. The Toronto based group hopes to start operation at the airport by June 1.

According to a press release issued earlier this week, the club already has a drop zone at the Arthur airport, about 100 miles northwest of Toronto. That area attracts parachutists from as far away as Chatham.

The establishment of the centre in Stanhope is expected to draw experienced and novice jumpers from all areas east and north of Toronto including such communities as Belleville, Muskoka, Hastings, and North Bay.

Jim McLean of Air Haliburton has been associated with the club for the past year and a half, supplying flying services for the jumpers at their Arthur location. He stated that his Cessna 206 was used by the parachutists almost exclusively during that time. His plane will continue to be used by the club in Haliburton.

Derek Rolfe, safety officer at the airport, is pleased with the new development. "It should really expand the action and increase the number of people who use the airport," he commented, "and that is what the airport needs."

The owner and president of the parachute school, Lloyd Kallio said following the Sunday meeting that parachute jumping and skydiving are the fastest growing participation sports in North America.

Lines from Lutterworth by Jean Lacey

Hi! This is Jean Lacey, writing for Lutterworth Township. If you have any visitors, or know of any interesting people, please phone me, my number is 286-1559.

We had visitors ourselves on the weekend; our son Clifford, his wife Cheryl and year old son Derek.

Mrs. Bedlington is visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Major and Mrs. Lewis. She is a grand lady, who's birthday is the 28th of this month, she will be in her late nineties. Mrs. Bedlington is very interesting to talk to, with many stories to tell and has also written a book called "Verses", which is for sale at the Lutterworth Library.

Talking about the Lutterworth Library, it is open 2 afternoons a week, Thursday and Saturday 3 to 5. Our books are changes every so often. Coming May 17th, there will be a puppet show.

More details later.

So very glad to see that Mrs. Laurie Guyatt is up and around again after a bout with a serious illness. Hoping she will improve more every day.

Saw quite a few trout fishermen out on the weekend. Hope they were luckier than our men.

Such a beautiful weekend, even the skunks were out sunning themselves.

Congratulations to Roy and Shirley Colliss on their 25th wedding anniversary. Heard everyone had a grand time at their dance.

Hint for the week: When hot dishes mark furniture, cover the marks with a thin paste of salt and salad oil; let stand an hour or two, then wipe off.

Hoping to hear from you soon. 'Bye for now. God bless until next time.

Our spring sale catalogue will be distributed by mail this week. If you don't receive one, copies are available at:
